Must Establish Eligibility

Missile Base Work Offered Local Firms

Sen. Stuart Symington said today he has been told by the Air Force that a prime contractor on installation of the Minuteman Missile Complex centered at Whiteman Air Force Base likely "will depend upon local firms in Missouri to provide certain of his subcontracting requirements."

The senator was advised that local Missouri firms in construction lines and communications-electronic design should begin at once to establish their eligibility for Air Force subcontract work, if they want to seek Whiteman Minuteman subcontracts.

The missile complex centered at the Whiteman Base near Knob Noster will include many installations spread over a wide area, possibly up to 100 miles radius from Whiteman.

In reply to an inquiry from the senator, the Air Force Department said:

"Although there is no Government policy in regard to using local firms it is to the advantage of the prime contractor to obtain these services at the best possible price. Local firms should therefore have a certain advantage in this respect."

The senator was informed that the construction industry will be issued formal advance notice about Oct. 1 on distribution of plans and taking of bids for work on the Whiteman Minuteman complex.

Local Missouri firms interested in subcontracts also can be notified then which potential prime contractors have asked for project plans and contemplate submitting bids. Thus a prospective subcontractor can "make an effort early in the program to associate himself with one or more of the potential prime contractors, and possibly assist in preparing the bid proposal."

Prime contractors select subcontractors, but these selections are subject to Air Force approval.

The first step for a potential subcontractor, the Air Force told

Senator Symington, is to prequalify himself to serve as an Air Force subcontractor. He then will be in position to deal with a prospective prime contractor in the formulation of a bid.

Information on how to prequalify may be obtained by writing the Commander, Ballistic Systems Division, Air Force Unit Post Office, Los Angeles 45, Calif.

Construction Funds OK'd For WAFB

An estimated $1 million worth of construction has been earmarked for Whiteman Air Force Base during fiscal year 1961. The House Appropriations in approving a $886 million military construction bill Friday okayed $834,000 for this base.

The bulk of the approved construction fund is slated for building a fuel cell repair facility costing $376,000.

Russell E. Peck, chief of the plans branch, Civil Engineering Squadron, said, "The project is still in the mill and we don't know anything definite on it yet."

Peck did confirm, however, the building of a $336,000 water supply treatment plant that will process some 1.3 million gallons of water daily. He said, "the facility now being designed by the Kansas City Engineering firm of Burns and McDonald will provide between 6,000 and 7,000 persons with 150 gallons of water per person daily."

The base chapel is scheduled to get a face lifting in a new annex. The addition to the building will cover some 3,716 square feet and cost $122,000.

The new air conditioned building will have offices, kitchen facilities and other features designed for youth and social programs.

Gravois Mills Lady Killed In Accident

GRAVOIS MILLS, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. Louetta Weinstein, 25, of Gravois Mills, was killed and her husband and three children seriously injured in an accident on state Highway 5 Tuesday night.

The highway patrol said a truck driven by Marvin Lee Weinstein, 32, the husband, went out of control on a curve and overturned. The injured were treated at a clinic at Versailles, then taken to a hospital in Jefferson City.

In Washington, government officials pondered what steps to take for getting the Eastern Air Lines $3.5-million prop-jet Electra back from Cuba. It was impounded there in reprisal for seizure of Cuban aircraft in the United States.

The FBI at Miami identified the hijacker as Jose Marin, 35, a 16-year resident of the United States, and prepared charges against him which included airplane theft, kidnapping of pilot W. E. Buchanan and assault of Buchanan with a deadly weapon—a pistol.

Marin was out of reach of U.S. authorities. The last seen of him, Cuban soldiers who disarmed him were leading him away from the hijacked airliner at Havana's Jose Marti Airport. He reportedly told the Cubans he was bringing them an American plane in return for Cuban aircraft seized in the United States to satisfy a tourism advertising bill run up by a Cuban government agency.

In New York, the FBI and police set up security measures at airports to foil a purported Cuban plot for grabbing more American airliners. Police were informed by the FBI that a pro-Castro group met Sunday night at the Casa Club in New York and planned to sneak hijackers aboard airliners at New York and Tampa.

County-wide Fallout Shelter Survey Planned

Sedalia-Pettis County Civil Defense, in response to President Kennedy's speech Tuesday night, will conduct a house by house survey of Pettis County to determine which houses are safe for fallout shelters.

The first town to be surveyed will be Smithton. Mayor B. B. Irig of Smithton requested last week that such a survey be conducted in his town. The survey will begin Monday and will continue until all homes and buildings in Pettis County have been surveyed.

The local Civil Defense unit is asking those who have built shelters to notify the local unit by phoning TA 7-0881. This information will not be released, only the location of public shelters will be released to the news media and public, officials said.

Republicans To Support Bill Passage

Timetable Calls For Passage By Tuesday Morning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican leaders announced after a party policy meeting today they will cooperate to expedite passage of President Kennedy's enlarged defense bill.

"I think the timetable is to have it on the President's desk by next Tuesday night," Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Senate Republican minority leader, told reporters.

"This is an emergency situation," Dirksen said, "and I think there will be no difficulty for the President's requests."

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, agreed with Dirksen and said Kennedy spoke frankly and forthrightly to the American people and the world as well Tuesday night.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., the assistant majority leader of the Senate, said he thought everything Kennedy asked for will be provided by Congress by the end of this week or the first of next.

He told newsmen he felt this would be one way Congress would demonstrate its support of the President. Humphrey also predicted that Congress will adjourn by Sept. 10.

He said Kennedy's talk was "firm" and "I believe and I hope it is now clear to our enemies as well as to our friends the strong position we have taken."

"We have made it clear we mean to carry out our commitments," Dirksen added. "There is going to be no fooling."

Congressional leaders of both parties praised Kennedy's blunt warning to Russia by words and deeds that America will fight for Berlin if necessary.

Republicans and Democrats signalled solid support for Kennedy's request for $3,454,000,000 in new defense spending. There was no publicly dissenting voice to his program of boosting military strength by 217,000 men.

There even was Republican (Please turn to Page 4, Col. 7)

Crisis News In Brief

(By The Associated Press)

President Kennedy indicated firmness in moving to boost the nation's manpower by 217,000, to mass heavier conventional firepower, and to array more ships and planes to ferry U.S. fighting men to any area.

Of the latest increase, about $1.8 billion would be used to buy non-nuclear arms and equipment.

Under Kennedy's plan, the Army would go up from 875,000 to 1 million, the Air Force from 825,000 to 888,000, and the Navy from 625,000 to 657,000.

The Army now numbers 14 regular divisions — five in Germany, two in Korea, one in Hawaii and six in the United States. To bring about a relatively quick beef-up in vital airlift and sealift capability, Kennedy looked to the Air National Guard and the mothball fleet of reserve ships.

The president gravely added a "personal word" at the end of the original speech text.

Slowly, he told his fellow Americans: "When I ran for the presidency of the United States I knew that this country faced serious challenges, but I could not realize nor could any man realize who does not bear the burdens of this office, how heavy and constant would be those burdens."

"In meeting my responsibilities in these coming months as president, I need your good will and your support—and above all, your prayers."

SOVIET REACTION

The Soviet news agency Tass declared today President Kennedy is using "the so-called threat to Berlin allegedly coming from the Soviet Union" as an excuse to justify the arms race.

In a dispatch under a Washington dateline, Tass gave the first Moscow reaction to the President's speech on the Berlin crisis.

DRAFT CALL GOING UP

The draft call for September will go up to 20,000 men, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today. The July call was 8,000.

McNamara did not amplify that statement in testimony prepared for the Senate Armed Services Committee. It was considered likely, however, that the higher figure would be maintained until the armed forces have increased their size.

This apportionment is based on the assumption that an election will be held sometime in April at which time the people will vote on a constitutional amendment. The amendment, if voted on favorably, will create a "County Aid Road Trust" derived from motor vehicle fuel tax revenue.

County Aid Road money now comes from the General Revenue fund appropriated by the General Assembly to assist counties in meeting their local road problems. Counties may obtain up to $1,000 a mile for road and bridge construction, provided they put up matching funds on at least a two-thirds state, one-third local basis. Counties may also obtain up to $100 a mile for maintenance work on the same two-thirds and one-third sharing ratio.

Applications from the counties for state aid, either construction or maintenance, must be filed through the respective county courts. However, local matching funds for the work may come from any source. The State Highway Commission by law is charged with the supervision of the County Aid Road program.

Record Peace-time Budget

May Ask Tax Hike To Balance Books

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy today called on Congress for $3,454 billion of new military and home defense spending that will push this year's red ink budget to a peace-time record outlay of $87.73 billion.

If Congress approves — and legislators seemed to be in the mood to vote billions for defense — the deficit would rise to a figure estimated officially at "more than $5 billion."

Kennedy's warning Tuesday night—that he will ask a tax increase next year if necessary to keep "strictly in balance" the fiscal 1963 budget, starting next July 1—was not repeated in today's brief, unadorned recital of fiscal bad news.

There was a prospect the deficit will be ballooned into an even higher figure than Kennedy set. It was raised by the staff of the Joint Senate-House Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation in a report issued almost simultaneously with Kennedy's new money request.

The report did not take into account the newly proposed military spending but challenged the administration's previous estimate that the current 1962 deficit would total $3.7 billion.

Actually, the staff said the prospective deficit would have been 4.9 $ billion regardless of the further build-up for Berlin.

"An increase in defense spending might bring increased economic activity, higher levels of income and profits than those assumed by the staff, and some increase in revenues in fiscal 1963," the congressional report said.

"But it seems unlikely that the increase in revenues would be as great as the increase in expenditures," the report added.

Intensified White House pressure on Congress to close tax loopholes, raise postal rates by $800 million and tap other sources of untaxed income were signaled in Kennedy's address to the nation Tuesday night.

Most of these measures, asked in January, still are languishing in congressional committees. Kennedy said they must be enacted to hold this year's deficit to a tolerable level and to provide a fiscal 1963 budget that is "strictly in balance."

Draft Calls May Soon Be Tripled

Says 'We Do Not Want to Fight, But We Have Fought Before'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, marshaling America's might against the Soviet threat to Berlin, asks Congress today to boost military spending $3.5 billion and call up 217,000 reserve fighting men. He is ordering draft calls doubled or tripled.

Under a limited mobilization program calling for no immediate tax increase, Kennedy is boosting draft calls so that 24,000 young men a month may soon be going into uniform. The August call was for 8,000 men.

World Reacts Favorably To JFK Speech

Warm Endorsement By Europeans For President's Stand

BERLIN (AP) — World reaction to President Kennedy's speech on the Berlin crisis divided on cold war lines today.

West Germans were delighted at his firm stand. Other West Europeans and their friends abroad warmly endorsed the President's pronouncement, with its prospects for improvement in the military posture of the United States and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The Soviet news agency Tass said in a Washington summary that Kennedy had seized on "the so-called threat to West Berlin, allegedly coming from the Soviet Union," as an excuse to justify name the representative of

The first significant reaction from the neutralist sphere came in New Delhi, where a senior Indian Foreign Ministry official called Kennedy's appeal for increased defense spending extremely unfortunate.

Refusing to be identified by name the representative of Prime Minister Nehru's government added that Kennedy's emphasis on holding the door open for a peaceful settlement was very welcome.

"Let us pray statesmanship will prevail," he said. Two persons intimately concerned were West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and West Berlin's Mayor Willy Brandt. Both were enthusiastic.

Adenauer declared in Bonn he was "happy that the United States has resolutely taken over the leadership of the West."

Brandt issued a statement saying it was a moving speech. "As mayor of Berlin," he said, "I want to thank the President of the United States for the determination he displayed to protect the rights of the Allies and the citizens of the part of this city that does not belong to Soviet-held territory."

The British government, though involved in belt-tightening measures intended to include its armed forces, announced full support of Kennedy's stand and warned the Soviet Union against any move that would inflame the situation further.

It added that Britain, like the United States, is willing to negotiate if the Soviet Union is ready to talk on a reasonable basis.

Among the first comment in Latin America, where the United States is seeking to expand friendships, was that of the Brazilian newspaper O Jornal of Rio de Janeiro. It said "Kennedy's action is more than justified by Premier Khrushchev's threatening words."

Young Man Killed

HARRISON, Ark. (AP) — Carl Mack Rogers, 22, of near Harrison was killed when his pickup truck and a trailer-truck loaded with lumber collided on U. S. 65 about 25 miles north of Harrison Tuesday.

In a no surrender speech Tuesday night on the Berlin crisis and the worldwide Communist threat, the President laid out his six-point program of military preparation and told the nation in grim words intended also for Soviet Premier Khrushchev:

"We do not want to fight—but we have fought before." He pledged to take the initiative in seeking a peaceful solution through negotiation with the So-

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department today boosted its August draft call to 13,000, an increase of $5,000 over the number previously ordered for Army service next month.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy asked Congress today for authority to call 250,000 members of the ready reserve to active duty for up to 12 months as a measure to counter the Soviet threat to Berlin.

Kennedy made clear that the military reinforcements he wants are not to meet the Berlin crisis alone but have been designed through long weeks of planning to give the United States a permanent boost in strength "to meet a worldwide threat, on a basis which stretches far beyond the present Berlin crisis."

He called on the NATO allies to step up their own military preparation toward the 30-division goal which NATO set several years ago for combat-ready defense forces in Western Europe. While he did not mention specific figures he said that nothing less than fulfillment of the agreed level of strength will suffice. He indicated that the United States is ready to put greater resources into Europe's defenses.

The President told the nation his six-point program will require sacrifice, courage and perseverance.

Kennedy said the measures will not immediately require any increase in taxes though they mean an officially estimated budget deficit of more than $5 billion. But he declared bluntly that if tax increases are needed to achieve a balanced budget next January, "those increased taxes will be requested."

The six steps Kennedy announced in his address from the White House are these:

1. A request to Congress for an additional appropriation of $3,247,000,000 for the military forces, plus a request of $207 million in new funds for civil defense. The civil defense funds will go for such purposes as providing shelters against attack in a nuclear war.

2. A request for an increase of about 125,000 men in the Army's total authorized strength, which presently stands at 875,000, to bring the new level up to a million men. The increase will be used to fill out present understrength Army divisions and to

Steelmen See Better Days If Automakers Cooperate

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Steelmen see better days ahead—especially if the automakers will cooperate. The mills had looked for a sizeable increase in output next month. But with Detroit, one of its biggest customers, hesitant about placing new orders, the steel industry now looks for its sharp upturn after Labor Day.

This is of more moment than just the outlook for the two industries themselves. The whole economy is affected when these two rise or fall.

The auto industry is uncertain about its course because of the labor negotiations—now building up to a climax, and because of some doubt about the spending plans of consumers.

General nervousness about how affairs are going both in Washington and overseas as well as in the stock market is making it hard to tell how eager the public will be to buy a new car this fall.

The steelmen are stressing, however, that both output and earnings picked up in the April-June quarter after a dreary first three months. And they say orders for August are still coming in at a rate that will send steel output above the current unofficial operating rate of about 65 per cent of capacity.

But earnings for the first half of the year ran well behind those in the like period of 1960. Price cutting in some specialized steel products has disturbed the industry at a time when it would very much like to raise prices instead. They face a scheduled rise in labor costs in the fall.

The trade weekly, Iron Age, reports that some Midwest steel mills are now turning out more tonnage than they are shipping. It says at least part of this buildup in mill inventories is deliberate. Some producers plan to provide nearly immediately delivery to meet the expected fall rise in demand, thus giving them a selling point over competitors. And some have chosen to keep output relatively level this month in spite of the summer order slowdown both as a customer relations and labor relations move.

The publication also says that some automakers overbought during the early part of the summer and now find themselves with a greater tonnage than usual when going into the changeover period.

Steelmen are looking for better orders from some of their other chief customers.

Increased government spending plans are expected to boost the steel needs of the construction industry. While private housing starts have remained fairly steady, public housing programs are increasing. More defense orders also should mean more business for the steelmakers.

Modern steel mills turn out much more tonnage than the older ones did. Costs have been cut so that the breakeven level is much lower now than a few years back. Even when producing at 50 per cent of capacity a number of companies have shown a net profit.

Any sizable increase in sales, therefore, should bring a much larger rise in profits. That's what the companies are counting on this fall.

Leslie Named President Of Clubs Council

Kenneth Leslie, president of the Sedalia Lions Club, was elected to head up the Sedalia Civic Club Council, at a recent meeting of the Council held for the annual election of officers. Mrs. Jessie Goist, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club, was elected as the new secretary.

Allen Hawkins, president of the Jaycees, gave a resume of the Soap Box Derby which was sponsored by the Jaycees, the success of which was due to the cooperation of many people in the community.

A report was also made that emblems of the various civic clubs on highway signs have been repainted and re-installed.

John Ryan, of Kiwanis, reported on the talk of T. J. Norris, superintendent of schools, which he recently gave before the Kiwanis Club on the possibilities of a Junior College in Sedalia. He explained the problem of a building could be solved by the use of the Broadway School on the completion of the new Heber U. Hunt elementary school.

The Council was in agreement this would be a most worthwhile project and will work toward making it a reality.

Completion of the Scott Joplin memorial has reached an impasse until someone can be located to lay the foundation.

A vote of appreciation was given by the Council to Ryan, outgoing president, and Mrs. Pete Siegel, outgoing secretary, for their work the past year.

The next meeting of the Council will be held Friday, Sept. 15, at the Bothwell Hotel with the new officers presiding.

make more men "available for prompt deployment."

3. A request for an increase of 29,000 in the active-duty strength of the Navy and 63,000 in the active-duty strength of the Air Force.

4. An immediate order, which is within the President's present authority, that draft calls "be doubled and tripled in the coming months," plus a request from Congress for authority to call up various ready reserve units and individual reservists. Given such authority, Kennedy said he plans to order a number of air transport squadrons and Air National Guard tactical squadrons to active duty in order to increase U.S. airlift capacity. He said other reserve forces will be called up if needed.

5. Retention and reactivation of "many ships and planes" which have been retired from active service or were due for retirement. Kennedy said specifically he would delay retirement of B47 bombers in order to strengthen U.S. strategic airpower.

6. Procurement of nonnuclear weapons, ammunition and equipment at a level which will take about $1.8 billion, or a little more than half of the $3,247,000,000 requested new military money.

Kennedy said he had heard the argument that West Berlin, surrounded by Soviet troops and close to Soviet supply lines, was "militarily untenable."

"So was Bastogne. So, in fact, was Stalingrad. Any dangerous spot is tenable if brave men will make it so," Kennedy said.

The President delivered his speech seated behind his desk in his White House office. His manner was intense and somber throughout. He never smiled.

Because of added personal remarks at the end, which he spoke with extra emphasis, he ran nearly two minutes overtime on his half-hour talk.

Congress gave enthusiastic support to Kennedy's warning to the Kremlin. Both Republicans and Democrats signaled solid support for his request for new defense spending.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, said that if the economy continued as expected there may be no need for higher taxes. If it doesn't he said, the country is going to have to pay the bill.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., said it is time for Kennedy to "put some first things first."

"He should call off his demand for non-essential spending and practice some fiscal belt-tightening," Mundt said.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said the Democratic administration already has given signs it intends to do this. Case said Kennedy had indicated he intends to "get going on the facts of the situation."

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said Kennedy's program "deserves and will receive the fullest measure of bi-partisan cooperation."

Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., chairman of the House Appropriations committee, said that Congress will give Kennedy "every dollar that is justified."

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., of the Senate Appropriations Committee, said he thought the amount might run as high as an additional $10 billion before this fiscal year ends June 30, 1962.

Sen. Thomas Kuchel of California, the assistant Senate GOP leader, said Congress stands ready to approve Kennedy's requests for an increase in military strength.

"America is of one mind and one purpose," Kuchel said. "We intend to keep our liberties. There shall be no further communist nibbling at freedom. Khrushchev must not be permitted to miscalculate our supreme dedication."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said that Kennedy could "cut out a lot of spending" if he chose. He said he hopes the President will let up on "this emergency business" which he said had been in vogue under Democratic presidents.

Sen. John F. Kennedy, D-Mass., said that Kennedy's program "deserves and will receive the fullest measure of bi-partisan cooperation."

Young East German Family Typical of Refugee Group

EDITOR'S NOTE: There have been many stories about the numbers of refugees flowing out of East Germany. Here, to show some of the whys and hows behind these figures, is the story of just one refugee family.

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP) — Some people escape from Communist East Germany by speeding a car through a control point manned by the Red people's police.

Most refugees don't do anything so spectacular.

Manfred H., like the majority, fled Communist rule in nothing more dramatic than a commuters' train. He came with his wife Luise, a pretty blue-eyed brunette and Angela, Angela is a year old and has a nasty bruise on her nose because she does not yet walk very well.

She does not have to. The H.'s brought a surprising amount of baggage, and Angela's streamlined baby carriage.

"It's hard on the nerves, though," said Luise.

Manfred explained how it was done. He is a train dispatcher and knows all the angles. He is a good-looking man of 28, carefully dressed in a shoddy sports jacket and slacks, with a necktie to show he isn't an ordinary workman.

When I met the family on a bench in the yard of the Marienfelde refugee camp, Manfred and Luise were munching bananas. In Leipzig you only get bananas twice a year, when the big International Trade Fair is on.

The H.'s lived in Leipzig, in a 2½ room apartment on the third floor of a four-story house. The roof was so bad—not from bombing, Manfred explained, but from neglect—that the people on the top floor had to move out and the rain came through the third-floor ceiling.

Outside of that, it wasn't a bad apartment as Leipzig apartments go and the rent was certainly cheap. It had to be. After 12 years of working for the state-owned rail system, Manfred was still making 500 marks a month—$125 at the official rate, but a good deal less in purchasing power.

Luise worked for the railroad too until Angela came. They had a church marriage but Manfred thought it wise not to mention that at the office.

"It wouldn't have done me any good," he said.

Luise had to spend all her time on housework and shopping. It's not that anyone is starving in East Germany. There's food to buy—bread and cabbage, mostly, and meat and sausage in the small quantities poor people can afford. Butter and potatoes are rationed.

Their parents left for West Germany some years ago. Then the young people tried to get permission to go, or even to visit the old folks. The authorities stalled, was all right with the police, the railroad people wouldn't let it.

They don't mind people leaving after they're on an old age pension," Manfred explained. "But when you've got a job, it's different. And then, for someone like me, it was pressure all the time. I wasn't in the party—yet. But everybody made it clear that if I didn't join, I'd never get anything much in the way of a job."

So last spring they started to make their plans. They sent spare clothes and bedding to their parents in the West, by mail.

They were careful to take the packages out only at night.

They thought about selling their furniture but did not dare. A local party secretary lived in the apartment downstairs.

Manfred set off alone on a preliminary trip to Berlin, with a heavy suitcase that held some of their more precious belongings. At Schoenefeld, on the southern edge of the city, there was a police check.

"Where are you going? Why? What have you got this in your valise for, instead of that?"

They wouldn't believe his story and sent him back to Leipzig. Before he got there, the police visited Luise.

She succeeded in convincing them that she knew nothing about any plan to get away.

When Manfred got home they put a note in his workbook that he had been found trying to reach Berlin under suspicious circumstances.

So they went about things more carefully. They planned a vacation on the Baltic Sea. Manfred arranged the tickets so they could stop at Berlin and see some relatives.

Knowing the schedules, he fixed it so they would have to take a local train into Berlin that passes through the Western sectors. Between the suburbs and the city there were two brief checks of identity cards, railway tickets and baggage.

They took the additional precaution of going at the rush hour, when the checks are less careful. "It was hard on the nerves anyhow," said Luise.

When the train stopped at a station in the French sector, they just got out and changed to another that brought them right to Marienfelde.

Why, I asked, don't the Communists keep people off the trains that pass through the Western sectors?

"They could do a lot of things," said Manfred thoughtfully, "and they could make themselves a potful of trouble, too."

Hijacked Passengers Get Special Care from Cubans

By AL LANKEN

As told to The Associated Press MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—There was steak for lunch and steak for supper. And daiquiri cocktails.

"How is the food? Everyone in Cuba eats like this," one of our heavily armed guards told me. Then he asked, "Are you going to tell the people back in Florida about it?" I think they were trying to counteract the stories about food shortages in Cuba.

Another thing — the Cubans I talked with insisted absolutely, positively that communism does not exist in Cuba. It's socialism, they told me.

All this while Fidel Castro and a big crowd of Cubans stood in a pouring rain to welcome Yuri Gagarin, the Russian astronaut who arrived at Jose Marti Airport shortly after our hijacked Miami-to-Tampa airliner was forced to land.

When the gunman took over on the plane, I don't believe anyone knew what was going on and even the hostess "Casey" (Joan) Jones only surmised something was afoot.

After the hijacker locked himself and the pilots in the cockpit, Miss Jones sat down beside me in seat No. 8, about midway of the airliner.

"You know what? I can't get into the cockpit," she told me. "Why not telephone? I asked. 'I tried to but I can't get through,'" she replied, and added, "Maybe I'll see you in Havana."

Sometime after that the no-smoking and fasten-seat-belts signs went on although we were flying at 12,000 or 13,000 feet. I knew then that something was amiss. The pilot announced over the public address system that he was proceeding to Havana at gunpoint, and advised all of us to do nothing and remain calm.

Everybody did just as he said. In fact the only comment I heard was from someone a seat or two away saying, "Boy, we've had it today."

At Havana we were taken out three at a time and were carried in Jeeps and cars to the airport buildings where we saw men, women and kids all wearing guns.

At the airport hotel the passengers were all isolated from everyone. We got extremely courteous treatment but every request we made—even to go to a rest room—touched off a conference. They couldn't seem to give a straight answer.

I think I was the first to ask permission to make a telephone call to tell my wife, Christine, that I was OK. They turned that down. Later after I got chummy with some of the guards I renewed the request but after a huddle, they said no.

I'm heading out on my rounds again representing a television film distributing company. This time I'm bound for Atlanta.

The planes traveling that way aren't likely to get hijacked I guess, unless someone is looking for a free trip to Red China.

Maris Blasts 4 More

Bambino's Record In Grave Danger

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roger Maris' four-homer spectacular has convinced even the skeptics that Babe Ruth's 34-year-old home run record of 60 in a season is in grave danger.

The 26-year-old Yankee outfielder blasted two in each game of the Yanks' 5-1 and 12-0 trouncings of the Chicago White Sox Tuesday night that sent the New Yorkers soaring into first place, a half-game ahead of Detroit. The Tigers were beaten 5-4 in the ninth by the Angels' Mickey Vernon counter rally at Los Angeles.

Maris drove in eight runs, three in the first game and five in the second—and now leads the major leagues in homers with 40 and runs batted in with 96. He is two homers in front of Mickey Mantle, who hit his 38th in the first game.

Maris became the second slugger to reach the 40 mark in July and he did it in the Yanks' 9th

Maris Wears Biggest Grin Among Yanks

By ROBERT L. MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Maris is wearing the biggest grin today of any of the New York Yankees.

Maris, the guy who hopes to break the late Babe Ruth's all-time home run record, turned loose the biggest home run explosion of his career Tuesday night. He slammed four in the Yankees' 5-1 and 12-0 victories over the Chicago White Sox.

The blows brought Maris' season's output to 40 and left him only 21 shy of shattering the great Bambino's mark.

Maris let it be known that the more home runs hit by teammate Mickey Mantle the merrier.

"Boy, I just want him (Mantle) to keep hitting 'em, too," said Maris. "The way he's going, they've got to pitch to me first."

Mantle started the twin bill one home run ahead of Roger. After Maris caught up in the opener's third inning, Mantle stepped up and untied it again, going ahead 38-37. Maris squared things again in the eighth, then picked up No. 39 and No. 40 in the nightcap.

Maris, a lefty hitter, is now 24 games ahead of Ruth's record pace. Ruth smacked his 40th in his 120th game when he connected for 60 in 1927. The Yankees have played 96, including a tie game.

Will the pitchers stop giving the Yanks' top biggest bombers anything good to hit at?

"No," Maris said. "People don't realize it, but the guys ahead of me—Bobby Richardson and Tony Kubek—are red-hot right now and seem to be on base all of the time. They can't walk us because after Mickey comes Elston Howard, and look what he's hitting (.363)."

Did Maris know Jimmy Foxx had reached No. 40 on July 23 in 1932, the year he hit 58?

"No, I didn't," Maris replied. Did hitting four homers produce Roger's greatest baseball thrill?

"I never had a good double-header, even in the minors, until this one," the beaming Maris returned. "I don't know why."

Are you going to break Ruth's record?

"I'm going to just keep hanging away."

Palmer Bids For Fourth Major Title

CHICAGO (AP)—Arnold Palmer, determined to complete the cycle reserved only for the greats of golf, begins his bid for his fourth major title within 16 months Thursday in the PGA championship at Olympia Fields.

The bronzed, strong boy from Latrobe, Pa.—fresh and eager after winning the British Open 10 days ago—needs only the PGA championship to put the fourth and final jewel in the golf crown he has worn for two years.

The 1960 Masters and U. S. Open champion, Palmer heads a field of 169 pros who will play 18 holes daily Thursday through Sunday over the Olympia Fields North Course. It was the site of the national PGA tournament the last time in 1925, when Walter Hagen won his third of a record five PGA titles.

All the top names of the game with the exception of Ben Hogan will be challenging Palmer, including defending champion Jay Hebert; Masters champion Gary Player of South Africa; three-time champion Sam Snead; U. S. Open king Gene Littler, and most anyone else you'd care to name in the Who's Who of golf.

But, as usual, most of the preliminary attention goes to personable Arnie—especially after the brilliant play that took him through incredibly bad weather conditions to the British Open title earlier this month.

A go-for-broke golfer who tries to overpower even the most cantankerous courses, Palmer has had six full rounds and countless practice sessions to get acquainted with the larger American ball.

"I'm having much less trouble this time," Arnold said after firing a practice 68, two-under-par for the 6,722-yard, par 35-35-70 North Course.

"Last year when I came back from my first British Open I just couldn't get the feel of it for several weeks," he said.

Of those revealing practice scores after Tuesday's warmups, only Palmer had a better round. The jazz-loving South African, who beat Palmer by a single stroke in the Masters this spring, shot a 66 with four birdies and an eagle 2 at the 375-yard 15th hole.

Hebert and former Masters champ Claude Harmon matched Palmer's 68.

Palmer and Player had varied opinions about what score should be good enough to win.

Palmer thinks 278 to 280 would do it.

"That's too low," Player said. "I'd be inclined to say no lower than 284. This is a rugged golf course—a good, championship course that demands consistently fine golf."

Merchants Win Stay in Tourney

The Sedalia Merchants took an 8-6 win over Taos in the Eastern Division Non-Pro Tournament Monday night in Jefferson City, despite a four run ninth inning turned in by Taos.

Bob Iglehart, former Central College ace hurler, went the distance for Sedalia. He gave up seven hits, struck out nine, and walked two. The Merchants got ten hits off Taos' hurlers.

Taking the loss for Taos was Ed Heisen, who started on the mound and lasted seven innings.

Leading Sedalia's attack were

Bill Morgan, John Higgins and Elroy Burton, with two hits apiece.

Sedalia committed four errors in shoddy fielding, and Taos chalked up five.

Sedalia now has two wins and one loss in the tourney. Their next game will be Friday night against the winner of the Salem-Columbia game. Lloyd Merriott, ex-St. Louis Cardinal hurler, is probable starter for the Merchants. If they win this game they will play again at 9 p. m. Friday against the loser of the Washington-Jefferson City game.

A double win Friday night would advance the Merchants to the championship game Saturday night.

ANGLING AROUND

BASS BAITS

Wanna get into a fight? Just step into any tackle store and get half a dozen bass fishermen arguing the best way to fish with surface baits. Then run for cover!

Basically, surface fishermen are divided into three categories: the fast retrieve, slow retrieve, and no-retrieve.

Fast retrieve surface lures include wood and metal baits with a sputtering or shooshing sound, made to imitate a frantic escape of a frightened aquatic critter. Mean ol' bass can't resist 'em.

Slow retrieve lures have a variety of actions, from a quiet, side-to-side swimming motion, to an erratic gurgle. They are most effective with a steady retrieve, and are meant to imitate swimming frogs, mice, bugs, ducklings and other tidbits. Hungry ol' bass love 'em.

The no-retrieve lures are the sort that work best in one place, kicking up considerable fuss with just a light motion of the casting rod. These include the plunkers and wounded minnow types. "Wait and plop" fishing is slow—so slow, many anglers won't use it.

The lure is cast into a weed-bed opening, alongside a snag or under an overhanging tree . . . and just allowed to lie there "like a stunned sputz," as one expert put it.

Bass are curious, and they will watch, watch, watch to see what this varmint does. When it does nothing, their curiosity reaches the exploding point. A little twitch or a slight plop about now will send the fish into a frenzy. Lazy Ol' bass just can't keep away.

Which method is best? Why, all of them. That's why most bass fishermen have an assortment of all three kinds of lures . . . and they experiment until they find the right combination for the day and the mood of the bass.

Flatbush Faithful Cheer, Trio of Bums Responds

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

A trio of Dodgers from old Brooklyn heard the cheers of the Flatbush faithful once more and responded like a prima donna to the cry of "encore."

Gil Hodges slammed a three-run homer, Johnny Roseboro belted a two-run triple and Sandy Koufax, a Brooklyn native, pitched a six-hitter and fanned 10 in sparking the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 7-2 victory over the forlorn Phillies at Philadelphia Tuesday night.

The triumph moved the pressing Dodgers to within one game of the leading Cincinnati Reds in the National League. The Reds fell before Lew Burdette's brilliant two-hitter in the Braves' 2-0 win at Milwaukee.

San Francisco's third-place Giants advanced to 7½ games of the Reds by battering five Pirate pitchers for 22 hits in a 16-7 rout at Pittsburgh. The St. Louis Cardinals, off winging on Ken Boyer's grand slam homer in the first inning, nipped the Cubs at Chicago, 6-5.

Roger Maris had a great night in New York as he belted four homers and drove in eight runs for 40 homers and 96 RBI—and propelled the Yanks to 5-1 and 12-0 sweeps of the Chicago White Sox. This moved the Yanks into first place in the American League, a half-game ahead of Detroit, nipped 5-4 in the ninth by the Angels at Los Angeles.

In other AL games, Baltimore whipped Boston, 5-1; Washington edged Minnesota 2-1 and Kansas City nosed out Cleveland, 3-2.

The crowd of 10,391 at Philadelphia included the die-hards from Brooklyn who usually make the 90-mile trip to root for their heroes no matter if they wear Los Angeles on their uniforms.

A Brooklynite hollered "Come on Gilly, belt one!" when Hodges, 37, strode to the plate in the first inning with Tommy Davis and Frank Howard on base. Gilly whacked the ball into the upper deck in left field just like he used to do at Ebbets Field.

Roseboro's triple, scoring Daryl Spencer and Charlie Neal in the fourth, cemented the victory. Rosey came in on a triple by Maury Wills who also had a double and single.

Burdette, back in his old form, yielded an infield hit to Chico Cardenas in the fourth and a sliced double by Don Blasingame in the seventh. He cooled off Frank Robinson who went blank after hitting in 19 consecutive games, an NL high for the season. Hank Aaron gave Burdette (12-6) the run he needed by poling his 24th homer, a 420-foot blast in the fourth off starter and loser Ken Hunt (9-7). Burdette drove in the other run himself.

Harvey Kuenn and Matty Alou each got four hits and drove in four runs apiece in the massive San Francisco attack against the fading Pirates. The Giants broke the game wide open with seven runs in the eighth and four more in the ninth. Reliever Stu Miller (8-3) was the winner and Pittsburgh starter Joe Gibbon (6-5) the loser.

Boyer's homer gave the Cards four runs and Charley James' homer another but it was an unearned run that brought St. Louis its victory. That came across in the sixth on catcher Dick Bartell's throwing error, one of four Chicago miscues. Ray Sadecki (8-5) was the winner and rookie Jackie Curtis (6-5) the loser.

Boyer's Homer Aids Cardinals; A's Down Tribe

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ken Boyer hit a grand-slam home run Tuesday as the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Cubs 6-5 at Chicago. The Athletics downed the Cleveland Indians 3-2 at Kansas City.

The Cards collected a total of 14 hits including Charley James' solo homer but still were forced to hang on to outlast Chicago for their fifth straight victory over the Cubs.

The seventh place Cubs had four errors, one bringing home the clincher in the sixth.

Ray Sadecki won his eighth victory against five losses.

In the crucial sixth, James, without a homer since June 18, lined Chicago hurler Jack Curtis' first pitch for a roundtripper.

Catcher Jim Schaffer, next up, singled and reached third on Sadecki's sacrifice and Bob Lillis' single.

On a 2-2 count, Lillis broke for second base. Chicago catcher Dick Bertell faked a throw to second then pegged the ball to third. It hit Schaffer, rolled into left field. Schaffer scored what proved to be the winning run.

Jim Perry had little trouble with the American League last-place A's for seven innings, holding them to two hits, but they got to him in the eighth.

Haywood Sullivan started the eighth with a double. A passed ball, a walk and a pinch double by Mickey McDermott then gave the Athletics their first run. With two out, Causey drove in a run with a single. He moved to second on a play at the plate and scored the winning tally on two wild pitches.

The winner was Jerry Walker, who left in the eighth for a pinch hitter. He held the Indians to three hits, struck out six, walked six and made his record 4-6.

HIGH POCKETS—John Hunter, 12 years-old, 6-3 and 195, plays in the Kankakee, Ill., Jaycees Little League. Talking over a play with him is an average size Little Leaguer, Rocky Donegnaue.

O's Pitcher Happy To Discuss Hitting

BALTIMORE (AP) — Steve Barber had lost his no-hitter and his shutout, so the Baltimore Orioles' pitcher was content to talk about his hitting prowess.

The 22-year-old southpaw belted a home run as he whipped the Boston Red Sox 5-1 Tuesday night.

He lost his no-hitter when Jackie Jensen singled with one out in the seventh. The shutout went by the boards in the eighth on three singles and a force play. "You'd better order some bats," teammate Hoyt Wilhelm chided as Barber rejoiced in the dressing room over his second homer of the year.

Ellis Leads Field

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Ed Ellis, of Asheville, led the field by one stroke in the National Association of Left-Handed Golfers Amateur Tournament going into today's second round.

He shot a two under par 73 to lead the championship division of about 170 players from 39 states, Canada and the District of Columbia.

Record Holder No. 2 Jumper Against Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Now that he has taken on all comers in the broad jump, Ralph Boston suddenly has found himself pressed into emergency service as a hop, step and jumper.

The world record holder (27-1¾) from Tennessee A&I will be the No. 2 U.S. jumper against Poland Saturday and Sunday, and he already is thinking big.

"Boy," he said today, "would I like to catch that world record holder against the wall and beat him."

Boston was thinking about Jozef Schmidt of Poland, who holds the world hop, step and jump mark of 55 feet, 10¼ inches.

Boston will replace Bill Sharpe, who was sent home to Philadelphia Monday because of a bad leg.

Schmidt, who has had an appendectomy recently, as of late has been getting beaten regularly by his teammate, Ryszard Malcherczyk, who has a 53-11¼ to his credit.

If Schmidt doesn't improve, Boston may have to worry more about Malcherczyk.

English Is Medalist At Colorado Springs

COLORADO SPRINGS (AP) — Jim English of Denver, champion in 1955, captured medalist honors despite two bogeys on the final two holes in qualifying play of the Colorado Springs Invitational Golf Tournament.

English, co-medalist last year, finished with a 2-under-par 70.

Dr. Howard Bramley of Denver was second with a 1-under-par 71. Four players bracketed at 72 were Carl Carlson of Cloquet, Minn., Steve Creekmore of Fort Smith, Ark., Beryl Anthony Jr. of Arkansas University and H. B. Bolas of Littleton, Colo.

Claude Wright of Denver, the 1949 champion, fired a 74. Gene Zuppann of Goodland, Kan., winner in 1950, came in with a 77. Carlson, a Kansas State University junior, was Monday's first day leader.

Match play begins today.

Concern Over Turley

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees hoped to find out today whether they can count on Bob Turley's right arm in their bid for the American League Pennant.

Turley, who hasn't helped the Yankees much so far this season, underwent a complete physical examination Tuesday. He is nursing a sore shoulder and arm.

LONG JUMP—Mrs. M. D. Rand, of the London Olympiads, sails 19 feet, 6¼ inches to win senior broad jump championship in London. Track meet was held in White City Stadium.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I've been going with a very attractive girl for seven months. She is 29, a medical secretary and up until recently I had planned to marry her.

I heard two weeks ago from a very reliable source that six years before she knew me she had quite an affair with a married man and that it lasted almost a year. He helped buy the furniture in her apartment and they took a few trips together.

I was shocked when I learned of this, so I asked her. She said, "That's all over now and I don't want to talk about it."

Could a woman with a past like this be a good wife and mother? Please weigh your answer carefully because it means a great deal to me. — NORTH

JFK Speech Welcomed In West Europe

BERLIN (AP)—President Kennedy's speech was warmly welcomed today in threatened West Berlin and throughout Western Europe.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, declared in Bonn he was "happy that the United States has resolutely taken over the leadership of the West."

West Berlin morning newspapers remade their late editions to carry long excerpts from the address. A typical headline was the Morgenpost's "Kennedy prepared to do everything for Berlin's freedom."

The speech came too late for editorial reaction in most European capitals, but the liberal Le Matin of Antwerp, Belgium, commented:

"This speech means above all that the United States wants to fully assume its duties as leader of the Western world. Kennedy clearly expressed the American determination to take the diplomatic initiative back from the U.S.S.R."

First Communist reaction was bitter. The official East German news agency, ADN, asserted that Kennedy deliberately distorted Soviet proposals for relieving the Berlin tension.

"He also failed totally to mention the danger to the peace of Europe posed by West German militarism," ADN said.

In Rome, both the official Communist organ L'Unita and the Red-leaning Il Paese described the speech as "threatening and bellicose."

As usual, Moscow radio and the Soviet news agency Tass were silent.

Vienna's independent Kurier headlined the quotation "An attack on Berlin is an attack on us all," and the independent Kronenzeitung said "President Kennedy calls for extreme toughness."

London's Conservative Daily Sketch said Kennedy "gave Mr. Khrushchev a grim warning last night in the toughest speech since he became President."

In Amsterdam, the Liberal De Telegraf carried the headline "United States not too soft to fight" and the Catholic Volkskrant said "Kennedy strengthening forces, willing to talk but also to fight."

The Communist East German radio singled out Kennedy's statement that the West is willing to negotiate over Berlin as a point of difference between Washington and "the extremists in Bonn."

America's allies in Asia were favorably impressed by the speech.

CAROLINA GENTLEMAN

Dear Gentleman: The question is not whether this woman could be a good wife and mother. Rather, the question is could you trust her, believe in her and forgive her the past?

From the tone of your letter I don't think you are equal to the challenge. I advise you to do yourself a favor and call off the marriage — for her sake as well as yours.

Dear Ann Landers: I divorced my husband two years ago because he worked too many nights. I realized soon after the divorce was final that it was a lot easier to have a husband who worked nights, than no husband at all. I tried for a reconciliation but he refused to come back. Last year he married a widow with a child and now she is expecting.

Our two children are 11 and 13 and hard to handle. Roy has helped a lot even though we live apart. Yesterday he phoned to tell me he is accepting a transfer which will take him 3,000 miles from here. I am frantic. I feel he has a moral responsibility to stay in town and help me raise our children.

I'm sure his present wife is pushing him to leave town as she is jealous of me. Please, Ann, tell me what to do to block the move. — NERVOUS.

Dear Nervous: Sorry, you should have thought about your children before you threw your husband out. Now, he has made a new life for himself and you are not part of it.

Of course it's your children who will pay the Big price, but then that's what happens when you break up a family.

Dear Ann Landers: My parents gave a lovely party to announce my engagement. Several relatives on both sides of our families gave money instead of engagement gifts.

What I want to know is this: Would it be proper for me to split the money with my fiancé, and each of us spend it on whatever we want? Or should I keep all of it since my parents put on the party?—WEDDING MARCH.

Dear W.M.: The cash register is making so much noise I can't hear the wedding march.

The money was intended as a joint gift, to be shared by you and your fiancé. This means you are supposed to put it in a savings account (where it will draw interest) and use it after you are married. There will be many things you'll want to buy for your home, and the engagement money will come in handy.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting—And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Officials Seek Method

See No Promising Course For Retrieving Airliner

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials searched today for ways to retrieve from Havana a hijacked American airliner. No course looked very promising.

By freeing its passengers and crew Tuesday without releasing the plane, Prime Minister Fidel Castro indicated he presently doesn't intend to return the four-engine craft detoured to Cuba at the point of a passenger's gun.

The $3.5-million airliner thus becomes one more piece of American property taken over by Castro.

U.S. authorities are keeping books on the Castro seizures for a day of reckoning.

The State Department said it was awaiting word from the Swiss on a U.S. demand that Cuba return the airliner. The Swiss Embassy in Havana has handled U.S. affairs in Cuba since the break in U.S.-Cuban diplomatic relations.

What future diplomatic step will be taken, if Castro refuses to release the plane, remained undecided. Washington could formally protest even though similar complaints in the past have failed to budge Castro.

On the legal front, experts said there is no international court to which the case can be taken with a prospect that Castro would bow to a court ruling to turn over the plane.

They suggested, Eastern Air Lines, the American owner, could make it difficult for Cuba to use the airliner outside Cuba, however. They said this could be done by legal moves seeking recovery of the craft if it lands abroad.

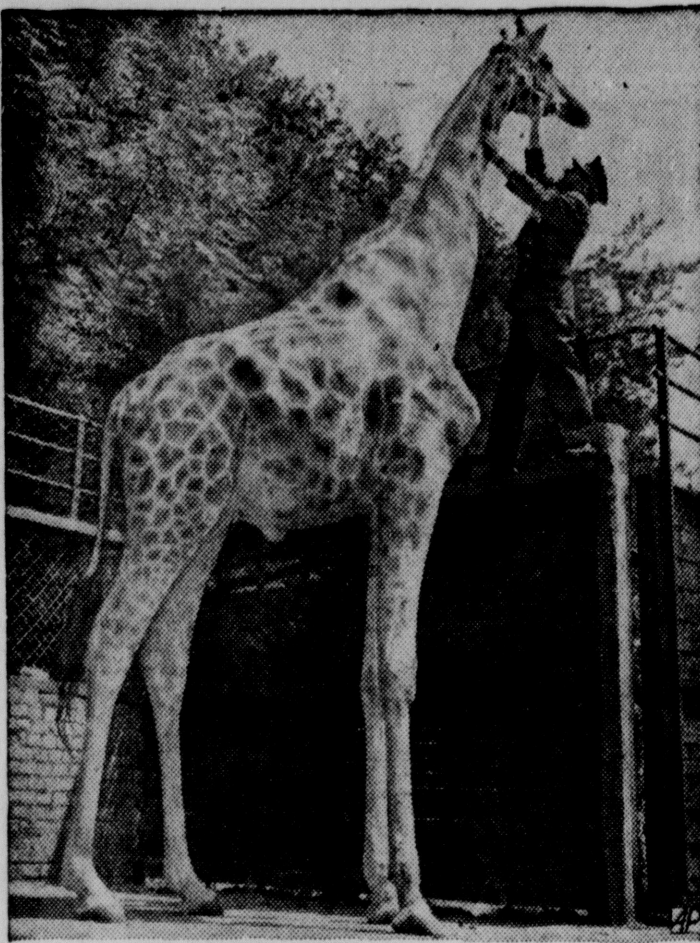

One question a non-Cuban court might have to decide is whether the plane was legally confiscated by the Castro regime or still rightfully belongs to the American firm.

A similar question is now before a court in Montreal. The Canadian government seized a Cuban cargo vessel which a private company claims belonged to it before Castro took it over.

U.S. authorities estimated that more than 10 Cuban planes, some hijacked and some on planned flights, have been seized in this country during Castro's regime.

They contended that these seizures were by due legal process, stemming from private citizens' financial claims against the Castro government, as opposed to what they called arbitrary governmental seizure in Havana.

the plane met a cool reception from Kennedy strategists.

Present U.S. policy is to foster economic growth and anticommunism in other Latin-American countries, then put a hemispheric squeeze on Castro.

Water In Arabian Wells Dates Back 20,000 Years

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ancient waters, death among the mammoths, and bug wars are in the science news:

Old Water

Water in some deep wells in the Saudi Arabian desert appears to range from 20,000 to nearly 25,000 years old, three U.S. Geological Survey scientists report.

They measured the age of water through its content of radioactive carbon-14, which is formed in the atmosphere by cosmic rays, and then drifts to earth or falls in rainwater.

The deep well water may have fallen as rain during the Wisconsin glacial period when there were heavy rains, said Leand Thatcher, Meyer Rubin and Glen F. Brown. They analyzed samples of water collected by the Arabian American Oil Company.

Bug War

To fight insect pests, use bug-eating bugs, urges Carl B. Huffaker of the University of California.

He doesn't think man has done enough to enlist predatory bugs as allies in fighting pests, and thinks they can do a good job.

In a current project Huffaker is trying to find a natural enemy to control scale insects in olive trees, and says a very effective predatory insect has been imported from Persia. A related insect, from Spain, didn't work out too well, he adds.

As successes in bug-to-bug war.

Haffacker cites the importation of Australian beetles to control a weed in Northern California rangelands, and the spread of milky white disease among Japanese beetles infesting eastern states.

Demise of the Mammoths

There's a wide belief that glaciers sweeping down from the north suddenly wiped out 50,000 woolly mammoths roaming the Siberian tundras 10,000 to 30,000 years ago.

But William R. Farrand of Columbia University's Lamont Geological Observatory, finds evidence against this theory.

He agrees the mammoths died suddenly, as evidenced by food found in their teeth and stomachs, but thinks they were probably asphyxiated when they drowned in lakes or bogs, or were trapped by mudflows or cave-ins of river banks.

Only 39 remains of mammoths have been found, and this number is about what could be expected from accidental burial, he says. The fact most of the remains were decayed or mutilated by predators before freezing indicates the mammoths didn't perish suddenly in glaciers.

Moth Defenses

To keep the species alive, Emperor moths of Barro Colorado Island in the Canal Zone have developed camouflage systems and a kind of chemical defense against enemies.

In camouflage, some species when resting resemble dead leaves or bits of bark. Others use eyespot patterns on their wings which make them look bigger than they are, and make them look like enemies of small birds which normally feed on the moths.

Still others have developed a nauseous taste or odor to keep from becoming meals for birds. Some types of moths are actually poisonous.

Quinn Comes To Rome For Best Script

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

ROME (AP) — Anthony Quinn had to come to Rome for the role of his lifetime.

He is playing the title role in the Dino DeLaurentiis production of "Barabbas," a $10-million production. It's all Tony's.

"I appear in every scene; so far I've been working four months and had half a day off," he said. "The picture is really an actor's dream: two and a half hour's of an intensive character study."

Tony plays the legendary criminal who was pardoned when Jesus was condemned. The part carries him from wantonness to faith, complete with gladiator fights and mass crucifixions. For a finale, DeLaurentiis will burn Rome.

The actor was playing a prison scene with St. Peter (Dean Jagger) when I visited the studio on the banks of the Tiber. After a doctor treated his shoulder, banged in a movie fight, Quinn sawed on a steak and talked about Hollywood vs. European film thinking.

He admitted that he probably would never have gotten such a role in Hollywood, where he rose from extra ranks to win two Oscars (as supporting actor in "Viva Zapata" and "Lust for Life").

"In Hollywood, they still think in terms of 'box office stars,'" said Quinn. "That kind of thinking is outmoded."

"I like the European system better. Dino had his choice of two so-called box office stars as well as me. He turned them down because he thought I could do a better job of acting with this part."

Quinn is not anti-Hollywood. But he reasoned: "Hollywood isn't a place any more."

"When you're competing with films like 'Ben-Hur,' 'Bridge on the River Kwai' and 'Guns of Navarone,' you can't just build sets on the back lot. Believe me, it gives an actor a charge to be working in an area that is 2,000 years old."

I mentioned that his father-in-law, Cecil B. DeMille, did all right portraying ancient times on Hollywood sets.

"But that was another era of film making," Quinn said. "And he didn't try it with Moses."

Tax Refund Is Approved For Harold Stassen

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The tax review board has approved a refund of $589 to Harold Stassen, former presidential adviser. The refund represents abatement of interest and penalties on wage taxes owed from 1954 through 1956.

Stassen, former governor of Minnesota and onetime candidate for mayor of Philadelphia, had petitioned the board for the refund after he had paid $1,415 in taxes plus penalty and interest for 1954 through 1956.

The board ruled Tuesday it was willing to abate the interest and penalties because it believed Stassen had acted in good faith in not paying the taxes when they were due.

Stassen said he was residing in Maryland at the time, when he served as disarmament advisor to President Eisenhower, and was not a resident of Philadelphia.

Truman Flying To Camp Ripley For Ceremonies

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman will fly to Camp Ripley, Minn., Friday to visit the 35th Division encampment of Missouri and Kansas National guardsmen.

Truman was an artillery battery commander in the division in World War I.

He will present a new flag from the Defense Department to the division.

Also making the trip will be the ex-president's cousin, Maj. Gen. Ralph E. Truman, retired, of Springfield, former 35th Division commander, and two nephews, Fred Truman and J. C. Truman.

Senegal Breaks Off Portugal Relations

DAKAR — Senegal has broken diplomatic relations with Portugal, following recent clashes on its frontier with Portuguese Guinea.

The Portuguese accused the former French colony in West Africa of harboring Guinean nationalists who fled over the border. A communique issued after a Cabinet meeting in Dakar Tuesday night announced the decision to break relations.

Book Drive Is Headache For a Girl

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (AP) — It took her seven months, but Judy Way has found a way to deliver six tons of books to Africa.

In May 1960 Judy, then a junior at Canoga Park High School, saw an appeal to send books to Africa. She enlisted a group of her journalism classmates, and became chairman of the school's books for Africa drive.

"We thought we were doing such a good thing," she says now. "We never thought we'd have this much trouble sending them there."

The drive started in a small way—a few books here, a few there. A Los Angeles bookstore went out of business and donated 300 volumes. Then Judy found a way to get books rejected by the Los Angeles City Library.

Clubs heard of the drive, and the books piled higher in a bungalow on the school campus. Judy decided to see about getting them to Africa.

"I started writing letters in December," she said. "I kept writing them and writing them and writing them."

"The books just kept coming in and coming in."

"We kept trying for transportation. We didn't know what to do."

She wrote President Kennedy, his reply said to try the U.S. Information Agency.

The USIA liked the idea, but wanted new books, Judy said. "They said the Russians were sending new books, and that it would look bad if ours weren't new."

U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson advised raising money to keep the venture private.

G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, said he was enthusiastic.

"He told us to let him know and he'd see what he could do," she said. "I'm sort of mad about that, because I wrote four times, even registered one letter, and never heard from him."

Then the Navy said it could ship the books from Norfolk, Va., to one of several African ports through its "Operation Handclasp."

Getting them to Virginia remained a problem until last weekend, when a large organization said it would send them across the country.

Local civic groups and the paper for which she works, the Woodland Hills Democrat, have started fund drives to pay the $500 freight to get the 20,000 volumes from the African port to their destinations—Southern Rhodesia and Nyasaland.

Freedom Price Will Be Paid By Americans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The price of freedom will have to be paid by many Americans, President Kennedy said Tuesday night in his talk to the nation.

After calling for a military manpower buildup and increased defense spending, he said: "I am well aware of the fact that many American families will bear the burden of these requests. Studies or careers will be interrupted; husbands and sons will be called away; incomes will be reduced. But these are burdens which must be borne if freedom is to be defended. Americans have willingly borne them before—and they will not flinch from the task now."

Rare Book Believed Owned By Franklin

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Public Library reports it has found a rare book—a copy of Benjamin Franklin's "Experiments and Observations on Electricity" which Librarian Milton E. Lord said apparently was owned by the author.

Lord said the book has marginal notes which probably are in Franklin's handwriting.

The book, which turned up in the library's rare book section, was donated to the library in 1873.

Bandit Pair Told of Job In a Letter

NEW YORK (AP)—"We may wind up in jail for a long time. We may get killed. But we'll get the money."

These were the closing lines in a letter that Richard James, 25, wrote—but never mailed—to his mother prior to a dramatic, bullet-punctuated $15,515 robbery of a West 23rd Street bank Tuesday.

James was captured. His partner, Lawrence Williams, 26, died in a gun battle with police across from crowded Pennsylvania Station only moments after the robbery.

Police found the letter in James' room, along with detailed maps and plans for subsequent holdups of two other West Side banks.

The two bandits, Negroes, used a taxicab for what apparently was their first journey into bank-robbing. James remained outside the Broadway Savings Bank while Williams, armed with a sawed-off shotgun and a .45 caliber pistol, went in.

In a loud voice, Williams commanded a teller to fill a bag with money. Then he threw a smoke bomb to obscure his movements.

The bank's assistant secretary, Walter Engkier, 52, was shot in the leg when he grabbed a gun and rushed at Williams as the robber fled outside and joined his companion in the cab.

Police cornered the bandits at Eighth Ave. and 33rd St., across from the rail terminal. James burst into the street with his hands up and surrendered. Williams came out shooting, and died in a hail of bullets.

Police recovered all but $4,756 of the money.

Labor Board Ousts Pair From Council

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The seats of two men on the Central Labor Council of Greater Kansas City were declared permanently vacant Tuesday night as part of a reorganization.

Ousted were Sam Gross, an officer of the Independent Cleaners and Dye House Workers Union, and Floyd Early, a teamsters official.

Both the Teamsters and Cleaners Unions have been expelled from the AFL-CIO.

The presence of both Gross and Early on the council was one of the reasons George Meany, AFL-CIO president, recently placed the council under trusteeship of Delmont Garst, regional CIO-AFL representative from St. Louis.

The council has more than 200 delegates representing about 60,000 union members.

Almost all the delegates attended Tuesday's meeting, conducted by Garst. He said the trusteeship probably would continue a long time. He appointed an 18-member advisory committee including all former officers and executive board members except Gross, who had been on the board.

Xi Omega Chapter Meets for Reunion

The Xi Omega Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi had a reunion of present and former members at the home of Mrs. Arthur Morgan, 1910 West Fourth, Saturday evening.

After a contributive picnic supper, notes were read from a number of former members, who were unable to attend. The remainder of the evening was spent in visiting, and viewing colored slides of pictures taken in Hawaii by Mr. and Mrs. Morgan on a recent trip there, and pictures shown by Joann Moore of various social functions of Xi Omega Chapter.

Those attending the reunion were: Mrs. Margaret Bartlett, Mrs. Lucy Belt, Mrs. Charles Dillthey, Miss Grace Farley, Miss Joann Moore, Mrs. Ben Moore, Mrs. Arthur Morgan, Mrs. Clinton Muller, Mrs. Bill Padgett and Miss Becky Lamm, guest from Kansas City, Mrs. Jerry Rymer, Miss Georgia Sullivan, Miss Mildred Sutherland, Mrs. Jerry Trotter, Mrs. Clay Tyler and Mrs. Leon Welborn.

Arrest Man For Refusing Cattle Test

TIMBER LAKE, S.D. (AP) — Charlie Peterson was arrested Tuesday as state veterinarians moved to finish testing his 680 head of cattle.

The unbending Swedish immigrant was arrested on a charge of obstructing justice. He sought to prevent state and federal authorities from exercising tuberculosis control of his 14,000 acre spread.

"I don't care if they lock me up—I'm not stopping here and I'll fight it to the highest court," said Peterson, who owns an air-conditioned Cadillac but drives a Volkswagen because, he says, the price of gasoline is too high.

The action came during a running feud between the Atkinson, Neb., rancher and the State Livestock Sanitary Board. Peterson said the Board gave him the same treatment Russia gave Hungary. "I'm not obstructing justice," said Peterson. "I was just protecting my private property."

Peterson said he padlocked the gates on one herd after the Livestock Sanitary Board had approved another of his herds.

"They took the bolted gates apart," Peterson said. Peterson's stand aroused fellow ranchers, who protested the testing costs would pare their profits. They also are fighting a drought and a grasshopper infestation.

Delay Hearing For Parents Of Mistreated Boy

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The preliminary hearing of the parents who chained their son to a bed has been adjourned until Sept. 7. Roy Hall, 48, and his wife, Margaret, 47, were charged June 26 with mistreating a minor child.

At the opening of the preliminary hearing Tuesday, the father said he chained Roy Hall, 12, because the boy had run away several times.

The case was adjourned to give the prosecution time to consult with juvenile authorities about disposition of the boy. He is in the Jackson County Parental Home.

Birch Group Organizing In Missouri

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The John Birch Society has an organizer working in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, two members have disclosed.

F. Gano Chance of Centralia, Mo., and Frederick Koch of Wichita, members of the society's supreme council, said Tuesday the organizer was getting a fine response.

The society will try to organize a chapter in Kansas City at a meeting within the next 10 days, Chance said.

There already are chapters at Centralia, Mexico and Jefferson City in Missouri, he added.

Koch said Kansas has chapters in Wichita, Hutchinson and Topeka.

The controversial society was formed in Indianapolis in 1958 by Robert Welch, wealthy candy manufacturer who said his goal was to fight communism.

Chance, head of a hardware manufacturing firm, formerly was president of the Missouri Chamber of Commerce and Associated Industries of Missouri.

Koch is president of the Rock Island Oil and Refining Co.

Piggybacking Fees Outlawed By Bill

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Otto Kerner signed Tuesday a bill outlawing Teamster Union fees levied on truck-trailers shipped piggyback on railroads.

The law voids any agreement that requires a motor carrier or shipper to pay a levied charge if it is not part of the direct cost of transportation.

The bill was aimed at Teamster Union contracts requiring truckers to pay the teamsters $5 for each piggyback shipment of a truck-trailer.

Continental Oil Is Standardizing Price

HOUSTON (AP) — Continental Oil Co. eliminated all temporary and sub-normal wholesale prices on gasoline throughout its 28-state marketing area Tuesday.

Cuban Revolt Anniversary Is Hailed By Reds

TOKYO (AP) — Red China today hailed the eighth anniversary of the Cuban revolution, combining its praise for the Fidel Castro regime with a bitter attack on the United States.

An editorial in the official Peiping "People's Daily" said the Cuban revolution set "a brilliant example for the world's oppressed nations and peoples."

The editorial, reported by the New China News Agency, accused the United States of preparing "new military ventures." It charged that troops are being recruited in the United States, Puerto Rico, Guatemala, Nicaragua and El Salvador for action against Cuba.

Heim Styles Feature Pure Princess Line

PARIS (AP)—Good-looking clothes that flatter the figure with a pure princess line were shown in Jacques Heim's "spiral" collection today.

The only things unwearable in the whole show were some of the colors—sallow sepia and greeny browns. More agreeable were hite, mustard gold, orange tones and black.

The designer thinks the most special things in his collection are two-in-one coat dresses, mostly spiral wrapped. Those, as well as most dresses and suits, mold the figure to the bottom of the hip and then flare flatteringly to a hemline which has dropped by an inch to cover the knees.

There are also dresses a look like suits and back-opening coats and jackets that appear to be worn backward. Taken on the whole, things are not what they seem in the fashion picture this season.

Capes and cape effects drop in a point behind in the Heim collection. Here again are necklines with scarf extensions draped around the shoulders. But in spite of its twisty name, the Heim show is generally clean-lined and simple.

Jackets are short or medium in length. Fur collars are modestly small. Cocktail and dinner sheaths mold everything but the waist, with a few high-waisted empire numbers thrown in.

There are flecked tweeds, textured wool coats, silk crepe dresses, velvets and pale gold to coppery and cut steel lames. Dark glitter comes with jet and iridescent trimmings.

An Indian war bonnet hat comes in green-black cock feathers. There are also battered halos and unicorn hats pointing off the one side.

At least one cocktail sheath has a mink-banded hemline. A black oilskin suit with white looped wool collar and beret could brave all weathers, and a black crinkled Orlon dress successfully impersonates grained leather. There is also a suede cape coat. Basket-weave self material in border bands is frequently used as trim.

Bobble-ended chain necklaces are worn backward to fill in bare backs. A sequined tweed beret dresses up a tweed outfit.

Icebergs Cut Cable Under Davis Strait

OTTAWA (AP)—Icebergs bulldozing through Davis Strait have several times cut the undersea cable carrying vital radar information from Thule, Greenland, to the North American Air Defense Command, authoritative sources here have disclosed.

Thule is the site of one of the Ballistic Missile Early Warning radars and would provide some 15 minutes' warning of an intercontinental missile attack on North America.

As important as the radar itself is the means to relay the information it gathers to headquarters of North American Air Defense Command at Colorado Springs, Colo.

One means of relaying this information is by submarine cable from Thule to Cape Dyer, on the east coast of Baffin Island at the Arctic Circle. Cape Dyer is at the waist of Davis Strait, which separates Baffin Island and Greenland.

It is not known whether the difficulty posed by cable cuts caused by icebergs has been finally overcome. Northern experts were sent to try to find a deeper channel for the submarine cable.

The Davis Strait iceberg parade is only one of many difficulties that have faced engineers during establishment of the radar warning and control network across Canada. Another was the difficulty in distinguishing be-

Indian Problem at Home

Today a greater proportion of American Indians vote, seek office, go to school, enjoy good health and attain certain marks of accomplishment and status than ever before in U.S. history.

Nevertheless the 300 reservations where live some 360,000 Indians still bear strong resemblances to those "underdeveloped lands" we commit ourselves to aid beyond our shores.

The Indian life span is just two thirds that of other Americans, and infant mortality rates run three times as high.

Among Indians 25 years and older the median education level is half that of the general U.S. population. Tens of thousands are not trained to hold good jobs even if they could find them.

Throughout most Indian territory substandard, waterless huts abound, though often electric current which could bring more modern facilities stands within easy reach.

Economic development — agricultural, commercial, industrial — lags badly nearly everywhere. On one reservation, 108,000 potentially productive acres produce not a cent of income for their countless Indian owners. Water rights, vital to Indian as to other lands in much of the West, are vaguely defined and loosely protected.

These are but samples, part measure of the "task" perceived by Interior Secretary Udall's task force on Indian affairs in its newly completed survey.

What the group proposes is something like the kind of development program favored for foreign aid plans, with heavy stress on better schooling, vocational training and placement, and infusions of outside capital to develop areas and draw in industry.

The task force likewise would slow down and make easier and more careful the Indians' transition from dependency to independence. There exists widespread Indian fear and distrust of the federal policy symbolized by the one long word, "termination."

That policy, fixed by a 1953 congressional resolution, called for all deliberate speed in freeing Indians from their federal wardship. Congress and others have become aroused over an Indian program which cost $160 million this year, $1 billion in the last 10. The rising Indian population has been a further spur.

Yet time and somewhat dismal experience with "termination" at big reservations in Oregon and Wisconsin cast the policy into question. To the Indians it means homelessness, deeper poverty than before, yielding federal protection and getting no other.

Though the recommended development program probably promises no more than a slow uphill pull, no wiser course is in sight. Surely the help we are urged to give to millions overseas we cannot withhold from hundreds of thousands of Americans—citizens all.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Some Conflict of Interest Unchecked

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—The House judiciary committee last week unanimously approved a new conflict-of-interest law regulating ex-government officials who might use their influence on behalf of private firms which employ them.

Simultaneously, the Defense Department issued new regulations guarding against similar conflict of interest.

Neither of these touched one field where conflict of interest goes unchecked and usually unreported—namely, members of Congress who promote legislation in the House or Senate which helps companies which retain their law firms.

Simultaneously, Sen. George Smathers, Florida Democrat, vociferously protested my column reporting that he had introduced legislation benefiting clients retained by his Miami law firm, Smathers, Thompson, Maxwell and Dyer. He accused me of trying to make him "knuckle under."

I hasten to add that I have nothing personal against the junior senator from Florida. He is handsome, charming, vivacious, intelligent, with many friends, and it is quite understandable that many senators and high officials check in with him regarding entertainment tips before they go to Florida.

Sauce for Democrats—And Republicans

But having reported on the manner in which Sen. John Bricker of Ohio, a Republican, pushed legislative measures favoring the railroads while his law firm was retained by the Pennsylvania RR, and having reported on Sen. Schoepf, Republican of Kansas, and his votes favoring oil and gas companies when his Wichita law firm is retained by oil and gas companies, I do not see how Senator Smathers, a Democrat, can claim immunity from the reporting similar facts.

Here are some of those facts: The 1959 ICC report of the Seaboard Railroad, line 24, shows that $34,290 was paid to the firm of Smathers, Thompson (Maxwell) and Dyer. The 1960 ICC report of Seaboard shows, again on line 24, that $62,810 was paid to the Smathers law firm. This is by all odds the largest expense Seaboard paid to any law firm. The Pennsylvania fee to the Bricker firm, incidentally, averaged around $30,000.

If you examine the Senate records, you will also find that the handsome senator from Florida is chairman of the Senate subcommittee on transportation, a key position important to several of his law firm's clients.

You will also find that he was the chief author and promoter of the Transportation Act of 1958, which, among other things gave government guarantees to private banks for the railroads, gave the railroads greater leeway in rate-making in competition with other carriers, and enabled railroads to drop passenger service merely by posting twenty-day notice, without justifying the curtailment.

This reversed the whole theory of regulating common carriers as a means of public convenience and caused havoc in many suburban commuter services.

No Law Re Congressmen

Some of this railroad aid may have been quite necessary. But the public is entitled to know that the man who wrote and pushed the legislation is a member of a law firm paid by an important railroad, and reporting it does not mean the writer is trying to make the senator "knuckle under."

This kind of law practice, incidentally, is quite legal under the present laws of Congress. Congressmen and senators don't pass many laws governing their own ethics.

Another interesting item, published in the Washington Star, April 2, 1961, indicates that Senator Smathers is continuing his interest in railroads.

"The Herbert Mays have been busy with guests," the Star reported from Palm Beach, Fla., referring to the former Mrs. Marjorie Post who controls the Post Toastie fortune. "Directors of the Nickel Plate Railroad last week held their annual board meeting at the May estate 'Mar-A-Lago.' Mr. May is a director and the group was entertained there for luncheon. Sen. George Smathers came down from Washington for the meeting."

The charming and delightful senator apparently did not object to having the Star publish this interesting railroad fact, but he does protest when this writer reveals the legislation he introduced benefiting the railroads and the law fees received by his law firm from the Seaboard Railroad.

This is what he calls trying to make him "knuckle under."

Aviation Week, July 10, also published an interesting statement by Senator Smathers that he will demand cancellation of foreign air carrier permit if any foreign carrier cuts rates below IATA standards. He says he is going to see President Kennedy (his one-time golfing partner) about it. The senator does not object to this news report, but doubtless will protest vociferously when it's herewith recalled that Pan American Airways is a steadfast client of the Smathers law firm, and Pan Am has been battling against Peruvian Airlines, Ecuadorian Airlines, TAN Airlines of Honduras, and others which have charged cheaper rates than Pan Am.

These lines contend that Pan Am and Panagra charge the highest air fares in the world, averaging ten cents a mile, which permits only wealthier people in Latin America to travel, not the lower classes which President Kennedy is trying to help under his new aid plan.

They also point to the new Magnuson bill urging travel to the USA and argue that one way to encourage it is by cheaper air rates.

Obviously there's room for argument on both sides. But the man who might seem prejudiced in making the argument is the charming senator from Florida whose law firm is paid by Pan American Airways yet sits in the supposedly neutral position of chairman of the Senate subcommittee on transportation.

Oldest Generation

We all have heard endless times that our population is getting older, in the sense that the elderly represent a larger and larger proportion of the total. We know, too, that government and many others are giving heavy attention to the problems of the aging.

Most of the time, however, the entire matter is expressed in terms of folk who are in or nearing their 60s. That's the age of retirement, enforced or voluntary, for many. It signals numerous difficult transitions.

How startling to realize, then, that the age 85 is now becoming a prominent factor in U. S. population calculations.

The 1960 census shows the number of Americans 85 and over is 920 per cent greater than in 1920. Then there were 91,000, today 929,000. The gain from 1950 to 1960 is 61 per cent, and these super-oldersters now represent 5.6 per cent of all the aged (over 65).

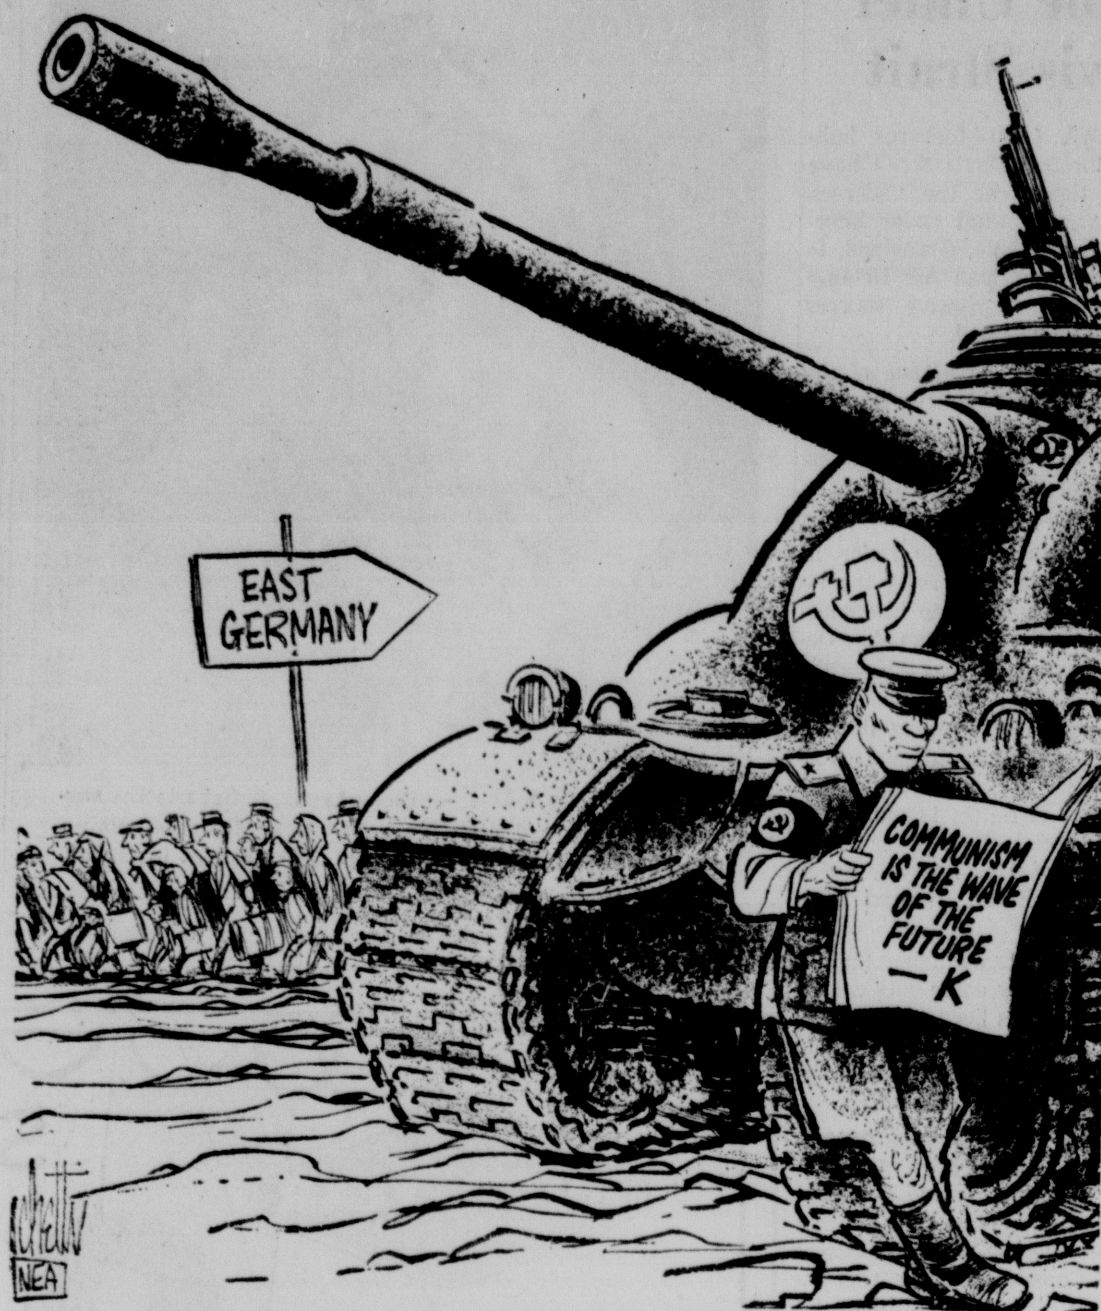

Wonder what they think of having a President half their age?

US May Have Reached Turning Point

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was clear in President Kennedy's address to the nation Tuesday night that he sought a psychological effect. But it wasn't clear what practical effect can there be in increasing the armed forces by only 217,000 men.

At least he indicated the United States may have reached a turning point.

For years now this country has simply been reacting to Russian actions, dancing when the Russians called the tune. Judging from Kennedy's talk, the United States will now start showing some initiative in dealing with the Soviets.

But his address, tough as it was in warning the Russians they can't take Berlin without a fight, still left the door wide open for a conference with them to settle the dispute peacefully.

At one point Kennedy even indicated the West might be willing to make concessions—but not major ones—to avoid conflict. Just how far he is willing to go with concessions—or being tough — is for the future.

But there could be no doubt he had three targets and three psychological aims:

1. The American people—to prepare them perhaps for rougher things to come by telling them the administration intends to take a firm stand on Berlin, even if it means a military showdown with Russia.

2. The Russians—to let them know, if they think the allies lack the will to fight and that threats can scare and split them, that they have war on their hands if they push too hard.

3. The allies—to stiffen their backbone, by putting the United States firmly beside them, and at the same time needle them, even embarrass them, into doing more for their own defense by increasing their own military preparations.

With all this said, the question

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

I. N. Page, of Sedalia, returning home from Holden, reports that between Holden and Warrsburg he saw swarms of grasshoppers completely devastating some corn fields. Having passed the same fields the afternoon before, he said, he noticed the corn was in fair condition and great was his surprise therefore to find what damage the grasshoppers had done in such short time.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The cornerstone of the new Baptist church which was previously known as the Morgan street Baptist church, corner of Osage avenue and Pettis street, will be laid Sunday afternoon by Centennial Lodge No. 49, A. F. and A. M., Knight Templars Commandery and Hawkins Lodge No. 44. The building would cost $30,000 if all the material used was new, but to economize all material in the old church that is suitable will be used in the new structure. The congregation lacks about $7,000 to complete it.

remains: Are the Russians going to be impressed by Kennedy's announcement he is adding 217,000 men to the armed forces — particularly when he didn't say he's sending them to Europe where the Russians far outnumber the allies in ground forces?

If they are impressed it will probably be more by Kennedy's expressed determination not to be pushed out of Berlin, leaving it up to them to guess what kind of force the United States would use to stop them.

In any showdown it is unlikely Kennedy would try to stop the Soviets with ground troops.

Two years ago—which was the last time the Russians threatened Berlin—President Eisenhower rejected arguments of his critics that the United States should make a big ground-force buildup in Europe to chill Russia's blood.

He said March 11, 1959 that such a build-up was unnecessary because "we are certainly not going to fight a ground war in Europe." This could be interpreted as meaning that if war came it would have to be a nuclear one.

Just a few months after that Kennedy—on Dec. 9, 1959, while he was still a senator—was asked if the United States was in a position to fight any kind of war for Berlin except a nuclear one. He said no.

It's possible he has changed his mind, for he said Tuesday night "we intend to have a wider choice than humiliation or all-out nuclear action."

But if he knows how the allies, tremendously outnumbered on the ground, could hope to stop the Russians short of nuclear war he didn't explain that.

He may have meant that by taking the tough line he followed he hopes to convince the Russians he means business and that the way to avoid a nuclear war is not to start any kind of war.

Good, Old, Uncle Sam— He's Right in the Middle

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — Your Uncle Sam today finds himself the great international middleman. He is caught squarely between opposing ambitions of many pairs of rival countries. Each one expects the United States to take sides with it and against its enemy.

The result is that there are more so-called allied and friendly or neutral countries mad at the United States than at Soviet Russia, for less provocation and each for a different reason.

The prime example now is offered by Pakistan's President Mohammed Ayub Khan, his official visit to Washington was openly for the purpose of protesting that the U. S. is giving too much aid to India and not enough to Pakistan. Principal enmity between India and Pakistan is over Kashmir.

The list of similar fights in which the United States is the unlucky bystander that both parties pick on is a catalogue of today's world troubles.

The Netherlands and Indonesia are both mad at the United States because it will not take sides in their dispute over which shall rule western New Guinea or West Iran.

Italy wants American support against Austria in the dispute over the South Tyrol.

Israel and the Arab states both want American support in their modern war stemming from the centuries — old conflict between Mohammedan and Jew in the Near East.

Nationalist China — which couldn't exist without American aid — is now angered by U. S. consideration of establishing diplomatic relations with Outer Mongolia.

The United States is the principal support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, but all of its members are vexed at this country — for entirely different reasons.

The French don't like it that the United States has favored independence for the Algerians.

Ruth Millett Says

Here's One Explanation Of Charm Bracelet's Charm

"Why are women so crazy about charm bracelets?" my dinner companion asked me with a smile, noticing the jingling charms on my own wrist.

I had to admit I had never wondered about the reason for the present charm craze. But after thinking it over I do have a theory about it.

We women are and always have been sentimental creatures. In the past, women unashamedly saved packets of old love letters tied in blue ribbon, filled the front parlor with family photographs, stored box after box of mementos of happy occasions.

But sentiment is no longer in style. Today we burn old letters, throw out sentimental souvenirs as trash that clutters streamlined living areas, and hide our family photographs away lest we be thought naive by our friends.

There's no place left for us to exhibit our sentimental treasures but the chic, acceptable charm bracelet. With it we can let ourselves go, putting a baby ring next to grandmother's brooch and great-grandmother's locket. We can add a new bangle to celebrate a wedding anniversary or a trip to a faraway place.

Each little charm has a special meaning and a story of its own. And how happy we are when someone admires the bracelet and asks about a particular charm. Then we're off—to tell where each one came from and the story connected with it.

So what we are actually doing with our charm bracelet is carrying the attic trunk around with us—the trunk that grandmother had filled with her accumulated sentimental trinkets of a lifetime.

What They Say

Letters to Editor

L. L. STUDER (721 West Third St.)—It is interesting to note from the issue of the Sedalia Democrat on July 23rd, that for the (6) months period ending June 30th, 1961, that the revenue to the City of Sedalia from the local Airport was only $35.84 and the expenses to the City at the Airport were $3,366.40 during the same period. It is apparent that the City does not have the necessary funds available to repair the streets of Sedalia without assessing the cost thereof against the property owners, but at its last session, the Council did provide a budget of substantial proportions for the Airport to provide airline transportation for the favored few and at the taxpayers expense. It is indeed difficult to understand how much longer the taxpayers of Sedalia and particularly the taxpayers living on fixed incomes and least able to pay, will have to endure the subsidizing of this wholly unnecessary transportation agency, in a city the size of Sedalia that will not provide employment to men and will not pay any taxes for the support of the schools, police and fire departments of Sedalia. The least that the City Council could and should do is to provide an election in which the voters will be given the opportunity to express their opinions, for or against a bond issue and which the City Council has consistently declined to do, notwithstanding, it has now been more than a year since the Council has such a request from the local airport committee.

Elderly Man's Debt Paid Off By County

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—"I would like very much," wrote William E. Ashby, 95, to the Polk County Board of Supervisors "to get this claim settled if possible before I pass away."

The board voted to settle the $2,536 claim for $1. An unidentified county official then paid the dollar.

Ashby owed the county $6,138 for treatment of his late wife, Bessie, at a state mental hospital. He had paid $3,602.

Stage, Screen Friends Pay Cantor Tribute

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Stage and screen friends of Eddie Cantor paid tribute Tuesday night to the comedian's 50 years in show business.

But one guest couldn't make it—Cantor.

His wife, Ida, said the veteran showman was confined to his home with a virus infection.

The "Eddie Cantor Golden Jubilee Salute," staged at the Ambassador Hotel, was arranged by singer Eddie Fisher and a committee of industrialists and show business figures that included Jack Benny and George Jessel.

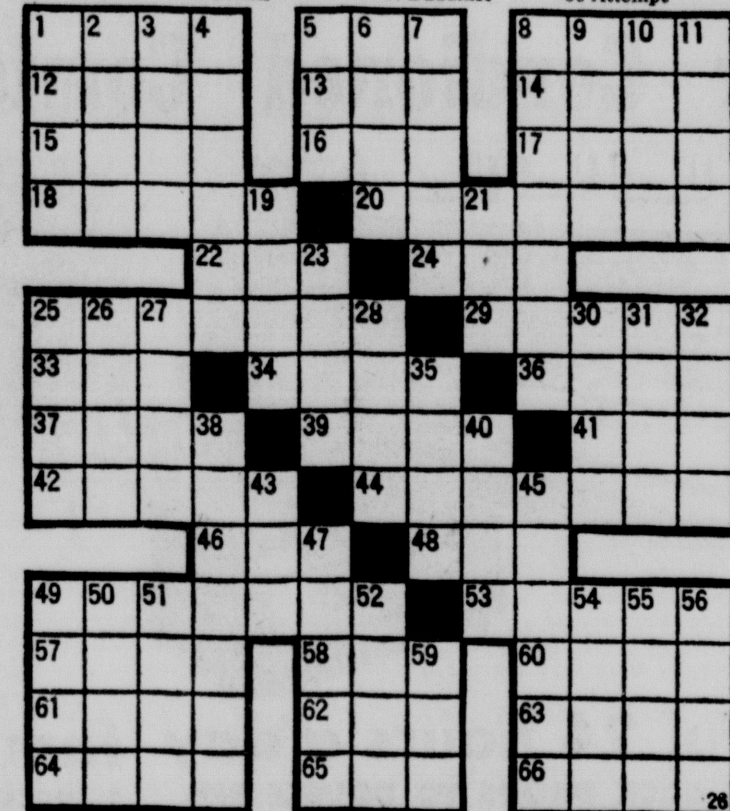

Chairman Barry Mirkin, a Beverly Hills financier, handed Mrs. Cantor a check for $100,000 for her husband's favorite philanthropy.

The money will go to the Surprise Lake Camp at Cold Springs, N.Y., which Cantor attended as a boy from New York's East Side.

Civil Defense Problems

Officials Say Home Front Is Not Ready for Attack

EDITOR'S NOTE—What benefits have accumulated from U.S. civil defense programs to date? In this third of four articles, Sterling F. Green examines the value of previous efforts.

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Officials agree the home front would not be ready—despite a considerable measure of civil defense preparedness — if World War III would come this year.

The modestly financed and largely voluntary effort of the past decade has left these assets: A warning system officially "excellent." From the Arctic outposts a warning can be flashed to more than 400 state and city central warning points in 15 seconds. The relay to 5,000 more local points averages seven minutes. The time is being shortened. The nationwide wire network for transmission of alerts, orders and information is being backstopped by a radio network for use if the wires are knocked out. Forty federal agencies, some state governments, and many major corporations have set up secret emergency headquarters remote from target areas and equipped for survival and communication. Major banks and insurance companies tuck away microfilm copies of their records in blast-proof underground depositories. The Federal Reserve Board has provided for ready-to-use caches of currency. The annual "Operation Alert" exercises have schooled key federal officials in running the government from hidden "relocation sites," under hypothetical conditions intended to duplicate the chaos that would follow an attack. Civilian take-cover and evacuation drills have had good success in many areas, less satisfactory results in others. A stockpile of survival items exists but is inadequate. Besides medical and engineering supplies it includes 1,400 emergency hospital setups, distributed in every state and territory. A $7-billion stockpile of strategic metals and materials is adequate for at least three years of war. Its existence helps to diminish the fear of panic buying and hoarding, the sure-fire ingredients of inflation.

Some 2,250 executives from industry, labor, education and other fields make up a "National Defense Executive Reserve." All have had at least six months experience in the government. All are pledged to drop their civilian jobs and take over the formation and operation of emergency wartime agencies when and if the call comes.

Twenty-nine states have provided legally — or have begun legislation to do so—the means for designating successors in case state officials are killed, and for running their governments outside the capitals.

Five states—Hawaii, Delaware, Georgia, Virginia and Maryland—have emergency relocation centers—hideaway statehouses. Nebraska has just voted for a blast-proof, $380,000 center. The federal government is to pay half the cost.

These would not be only for civil defense use, but for state government activities.

mobilization spokesman said: "It is our idea to avoid martial law, to keep constitutional government operating at every level even under the impact of atomic assault."

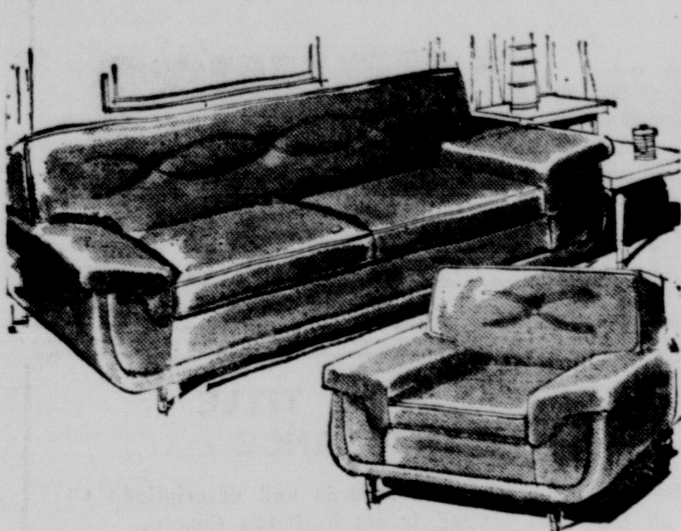

Unhappily, civil defense officials admit they do not know how many cities, counties and areas lack a functioning civil defense organization, and how many of those set up in the Korean crisis may have lapsed into inactivity.
